Friday, March 30. 1705.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated April 2.

From the Camp before Gibraltar, March 7.

THE 27th of the laſt Month, we began to land the Cannon, Mortars, and Ammunition, brought by a great Number of Veſſels from Barcelona and Cadix, that arriv'd in the Bay the Night before; tho' the Weather was that Day very Tempeſtuous. The 28th in the Morning, the Marſhal de Theſſe went on Board the Baron de Pointi's Ship, and held a great Council of War; but the Wind blowing hard, he did not return to the Camp till late in the Night, when it was leſs boiſterous. The 1ſt of this Month 2000 Pioneers came to the Camp. The 2d we plac'd on the Batteries ſome of the Cannon newly brought us, and drew of them that were grown unſerviceable by long firing. The 3d it rain'd very hard, yet 20000 Facines were brought into our Trenches. The 4th, we landed more of the Artillery, Bombs, and Powder, brought us from Barcelona and Cadix. The 5th, 4 large French Men of War arriv'd from Toulon, to reinforce the Baron de Pointi's Squadron. The 6th, we made an end of the landing the Ammunition, &c. from on Board the Tranſports. To Day, the 7th, we have had a very ſtormy Wind and Rain, which diſcommode us extremely. To Morrow we ſhall begin to fire upon the Place, with the new Artillery placed on our Batteries.

From the Paris Gazette, dated March 28.

Venice, March 7. The German Horſe continue to Forrage in the Breſſan, and ſometimes Pillage the Peaſants, as well as the Country Seats of the Inhabitants of Breſcia. The Count of Leiningen has ſent to Vienna an Officer of Note, to repreſent to the Emperor the Condition to which his Army is reduced, it being found by the laſt general Review that they are not 10000 Men. The French have reinforced with new Troops the Paſs they are poſſeſs'd of on the Moncio, namely Goito, Valeggio, Monzambano, and Ponti. They likewiſe fortify Lazize on the Lake of Garda, and for that purpoſe have demanded of the Inhabitants of that Place, and the Neighbourhood of it, 4000 Paliſadoes and a like Numbet of Faſcines. The laſt Letters from Verona add, That they have taken on the Lake, ſome Barks laden with Wood, and having many German Soldiers on Board, with which they were going to Salo, and brought them inro Lazize, where they were in want of Wood. Other Barks which the French had ſtop'd at Peſchiera, and afterwards diſcharged, are gone to Salo, to take in German Soldiers there and tranſport them from the Breſſan to Riva, whence they are to March to join thoſe that are already in the Valley of Poleſella, and at Peſcantina on this ſide the Adige, to the Number of about 2500 Men, and who commit great Diſorders there. One of their Parties of 300 Horſe having paſs'd the Adige at a Ford near Verono, has made an Incurſion into the Mantuan, and brought back ſome Booty. The 3d of this Month Signior Vendramine Prianchi, one of the Secretaries of the Republick, and formerly their Reſident at Milan, was nominated to go to Switzerland in the ſame Quality of Reſident.

From the Amſterdam Gazette dated, Aptil 3.

Venice, March 21. The Queen Dowager of Poland is at Padua ſtill, with the Electoreſs of Bavaria her Daughter. The 14th Signior Zani was nominated to ſucceed Signior Delfino, as Ambaſſador from this Republick to the Imperial Court. The Letters from the Breſſan bring nothing new in relation to the 2 Armies that are in that Province, except that there are Skirmiſhes ſometimes between the Parties that guard the Forragers, particularly one lately near Ponte Vigo and Villagana, were the Imperialiſts took 32 of the French Priſoners and carried them into their Camp. A Party of Imperial Horſe is arriv'd at St. Michael near Verona, on what Deſign we cannot tell. An Officer ſent from the Camp at Creſcentino, is arriv'd in the Camp of the Count de Leiningen at Gavardo.

From the Amſterdam Courant dated April 4.

Turin, March 10. The Men taken Priſoners by the Enemy in the Fort that cover'd the Communication between Creſcentino and Verue, having been exchang'd againſt a like Number of French, and being brought to his Royal Highneſs's Camp, were tried by a Court Martial, and every 10th Man of them being condemn'd for not acquitting themſelves like Soldiers in the Defence of that Fort, 26 Soldiers were perſuant to that Sentence hang'd the 6th Inſtant; how their Officers will be puniſh'd we cannot yet learn. The Marquis of Hes a Savoyard, who was Governour of that Fort, lay at Creſcentino that Night it was taken, without his Royal Highneſs's Leave, or Knowledge; and beieg inform'd it was ſurpriz'd, and juſtly apprehending his Royal Highneſs would make him anſwer for it with his Head, he found Means to get into a ſmall Boat the next Morning undiſcover'd, and went over to the Enemy.

From the Amſterdam Gazette, dated April 3.

Amſterdam, April 3. We have receiv'd no Account yet, directly from Turin, of the Duke of Savoy's Retreat from Creſcentino to Chivas; but the Letters from Milan tell us his Royal Highneſs pretends to maintain himſelf in the Poſt he is in, till the Succours, he has been kept in Hopes of ſo long, arrive; and that it does not appear the Duke of Vendome has any Deſign to attack him, he having put his Troops into Quarters to give them Refreſhment after their tedious Fatigues, and waiting the Arrival of the Recruits and Reinforcements that are to be ſent to him to re-eſtabliſh his Army. He has contented himſelf with leaving ſome in Creſcentino, and about Verue to keep it cloſely block'd up, propoſing to himſelf that the Garriſon will be oblig'd to ſurrender at Diſcretion, when they have conſum'd all their Proviſions; and that the Place will of courſe fall into his Hands, without a Blow, with all its Fortifications and Mines. The Duke of Vendome ought to be very ſure the Garriſon muſt yield or ſtarve, if it be true that he has determin'd to riſque nothing, but to wait with Patience till they ſurrender of themſelves. Whether ther he is or not, Time will ſhew. Mean time, whatever becomes of the Place, it appears plainly the Duke of Savoy has, by the long and glorious Defence it has made, gain'd a very important Advantage, in ruining his Enemy's Army with a Winter Siege; and giving Opportunity to his Allies to ſuccour him, ſtill Time enough, in the Spring.

'London, March 30. We have ſeen a Letter dated 'the 2d of April N. S. from the Hague, which (a-'mong other things,) ſays the Duke of Savoy had by 'a Letter newly aſſur'd the States General that he 'was determin'd to perſiſt firmly in the Grand Alli-'ance, tho' he ſhould loſe all his Country.

From the Amſterdam Gazette, dated March 31.

Amſterdam, March 31. Letters from Saxony of the 26th Inſtant, tell us ſeveral Officers of the Pruſſian Troops that are marching from the upper Palatinate for Italy, had paſs'd through Leipſick to overtake and joyn them in their March; that the Prince of Anhalt Daſſau who is to command them in Chief, was expected there every Moment; and that it was hop'd thoſe Troops might arrive at the Lake of Guarda by the 12 of April, they being expreſly order'd to march with all poſſible Expedition. King Auguſtus of Poland has caus'd an Ordinance to be publiſh'd, for Magazines to be made in the principal Towns of the Electorate of Saxony, and for the Fortifications of thoſe Towns to be repair'd: The Inhabitants of them are commanded to furniſh themſelves with Proviſions for 6 Months. The Deporture of his ſaid Majeſty for Poland is deferr'd ſtill, becauſe he will review his Troops, and after that order them whither to march. His Horſe will be all remounted by the End of this Month. His Regiments of Foot are compleat. It appears the Swedes deſign to oppoſe, as far as they are able, the return of the Saxons into Poland.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated April 3.

Triers, March 27. The laſt Advices we had from the Enemy's Country, were, that the Marquis of Bouveaux Inſpector Ganeral of the French Cavalry, arriv'd at Luxemburg the 22d from Longwy, whence he was to go to Metz the 26th to wait upon the Marſhal de Villars; that he had ſent Order to all the Horſe quarter'd between Maubeuge and Verden, to be ready for a general Review the 5th of April; that the Enemy reckon upon taking the Field a few Days after, and to be beforehand with the Allies on the Moſelle; and that they had ſent down from Metz to Thionville a great Number of Boats laden with Ammunition of all Sorts, which was no ſooner landed there but it was ſent to Luxemburg in 150 Waggons. Mean time the Generals of the Allies here, neglect nothing to render their Deſigns Fruitleſs; in Order to which they keep all their Troops in a Readineſs to march, and keep Men at work to perfect the Line made in our Neighbourhood with all poſſible Diligence. Yeſterday and to Day a great Number of Boats laden with Ammunition, Proviſions, and Forrage, came up the River hither. They draw moſt of their Forces towards the Frontiers; and impatiently expect to be reinforc'd with 9 or 10000 Men which they have caus'd to be rais'd this Winter, in Pomerania and other Provinces. 'Tis confirm'd that the Cardinal Primate has excus'd himſelf from medling in the Affairs of the new King Staniſlaus, notwithſtanding the repeated Inſtances that have been made to him; which has retarded the Execution of the Meaſures taken for ſummoning a Diet to meet at Poſnania, to fix the Day of that pretended King's Coronation.
